

Parents have an important role to play ...

Action Innocence Monaco cordially invites you to join us for an important online information and awareness session focused on digital technology, its risks and effects. In today's rapidly evolving digital landscape, it is crucial for parents to stay informed about their children's online activities, including social media usage and video gaming.

During this session, Damien Scolari, one of our psychologists and Nick Danziger, our Vice-President, will provide valuable insights and practical tips as well as answer your questions to help you guide your children towards responsible and secure use of the internet, social media platforms and video games.

Topics that will be covered include:

1. Understanding the risks and benefits of social media
2. Promoting healthy online habits and etiquette
3. Recognising signs of problematic internet use
4. Implementing parental controls and privacy settings
5. Navigating the world of online gaming safely

By attending this session, you will gain a better understanding of the digital landscape your children inhabit and learn effective strategies to support them in making informed decisions online.

We encourage all parents to take advantage of this opportunity to enhance their digital literacy skills and foster a safer online environment for you and your family.
